Coalesse Expands the Potrero415 Table Collection with Light Version
Form Frees Function with a Focus on Social Connection in the Workplace

Grand Rapids, MI — As modern workplaces realize a greater need for communal and social spaces, designers strive to provide focal point furnishings that support a range of essential applications. More than a slim, lighter scale version of the popular Potrero415 table series, the newly enhanced Potrero415 Light brings flexibility in design to the collaborative spaces that today's workplace needs.

The right-sized table solution fills a gap for many of the open and in-between spaces that are otherwise underutilized, adding valuable destinations to the work day. A newly proportioned, slimmer structure supports both standing and seated heights for diverse work environments, while a simplified understructure for plug-and-play power invites creative collaboration by allowing workers to charge their devices away from their desks. Newly introduced solid oak legs bring a richer design sensibility to work. Potrero415 Light is fully customizable from table top materials to infinite frame color options.

Potrero415 Light 2018 Key Features:

- Seamless technology integration
- Table top material choices: laminate, veneer, Corian or back painted glass
- Legs made of solid oak wood, painted or polished aluminum with leg ring detail
- Seated or standing height up to 10 feet
- Infinite frame and leg color options with Coalesse Color

Thoughtfully re-engineered to meet modified roles for lighter work, Potrero415 Light retains all the same iconic design, customization features and rich materiality of the original Potrero415 table. With greater material choice, the newly enhanced table series furthers the range of applications and customization capabilities to easily integrate into any collaborative setting – large or small.

In a time where social spaces are vital settings in the new workplace, designers can take work to new places with Potrero415 Light and offer a mix of performance and design tailored to the more intimate scale of transitional and informal gathering spots. Increased choice gives more power to designers to create unique environments for social connection, creative collaboration, and support a diverse range of work modes.
